DETAILED ACTION

This is a response to the amendment filed 9/9/2003. Claims 2-13 and 23-28 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 2-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ashby et al. (USP 5,095,233). Figure 8 shows a shift clock signal generator comprising a reference clock signal (REFCLK), a delay line including a plurality of delay elements (150-154, 166-170) connected in cascade, wherein each delay unit has a prescribed delay time, a shift clock signal output path (outputs of 156, 158 and 160), a group of switches (156, 158 and 160) having first ends connected with output terminals of the unit delay elements, respectively, and a second ends connected with the shift clock signal output path, wherein when specified one among the switches is in its on position, a delayed clock signal which results from delaying the reference clock signal by a prescribed time interval is transmitted via the specified switch to the shift clock signal output path as the shift clock signal; and a switch controlling means (226, 230, 236, 234) for determining the specified one among the witches on the basis of data representing a phase difference of the shift clock signal from the reference clock signal and for setting the specified switch in its on position. Not shown in Ashby et al. is the reference clock signal output path for outputting the reference clock signal as called for in claim 6. However, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art that if required the reference clock signal of Ashby et al.

can be tapped to be the output signal. Therefore, outside of non-obviousness, the obviousness of wiring the reference clock signal to be the output signal will not be patentable under 35USC 103(a).

Regarding claims 2-5, the plurality of delay lines, group of switches, a plurality of switch controlling means are seen as the additional delay line 184 which has identical structure of the delay line 142.

Regarding claim 7, each of the unit delay is (150, 152, 154) is gate circuit having a prescribed signal delay time.

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 8-13 and 23-28 are presently allowed.
